Note

Takei out-landed Moloney 70-27 over the first five rounds, though he was deducted a point in the second round for low blows. Moloney was finally able to close the distance in the sixth round, and from that round on, he landed 98 punches to Takei's 117. Though Moloney fought better over the second half of the fight, he didn't find sustained success until the twelfth round, where he landed 26 power punches and came very close to knocking down an exhausted Takei. Alas, it was not enough to stop Takei from winning the WBO Bantamweight Title in his ninth fight.
