Inside The Numbers

Gomez Jr. landed more than O'Doherty in almost every category yet still walked away with a draw rather than a decision, a scorecard that sits awkwardly against the numbers. Gomez finished 226 of 875 for 25.8%, well ahead of O'Doherty's 162 of 1058 for 15.3%, and the gap widened on power shots, where Gomez connected on 176 of 636 for 27.7% against O'Doherty's 114 of 606 for 18.8%. The jab told the same story, Gomez landing 50 of 239 for 20.9% compared to O'Doherty's 48 of 452 for 10.6%, meaning O'Doherty threw nearly twice as many jabs but connected at less than half the rate. Body work was lopsided too, 56 landed for Gomez against just 9 for O'Doherty. Still, O'Doherty closed hard, landing 16 of 97 in round 12 to Gomez's 7 of 33, enough volume late to keep the cards level despite trailing in accuracy throughout.
