Inside The Numbers

Navarrete came into the fight as a slight underdog, and fought Nunez on relatively even terms over the first two rounds, slightly out-landing him 15-11. From the third round on, Navarrete stepped on the gas, out-landing Nunez 221-129 over the next eight rounds.

Nunez tried to stem the tide of the fight by targeting Navarrete's body to the tune of 72 body shots landed compared to 33 for Navarrete. The body shots only seemed to momentarily deter Navarrete, who bloodied Nunez and only got more accurate as Nunez's right eye started to close. By the end of the fight, Navarrete had connected on 48% of his power punch attempts. The doctor stopped the fight because of Nunez's eye one second into the eleventh round.
